Water Safety For Dogs

CAN ALL DOGS SWIM?

PRECAUTIONS AND SAFETY TIPS

...With some dogs having no concept of their own safety, owners should be extra vigilant about water safety for dogs. Swimming with your dog is a great way to bond. It provides both physical and mental exercise, and is a great way to keep cool on a hot day. Dogs with joint pain can greatly benefit from water therapy. This low impact exercise puts minimal pressure on joints and increases flexibility. However, dogs don't have the capacity to pace themselves, so supervision is required for even the strongest swimmers...

Not All Dogs Are Good Swimmers

Can All Dogs Swim?

Some dog breeds love water and are natural swimmers. However, some dogs have physical limitations or anxiety issues which make swimming difficult.

Natural Swimmers

Certain dog breeds have a natural affinity for water and excel at swimming. These breeds typically possess physical characteristics that enhance their swimming abilities, such as webbed feet, a water-repellent coat, and a strong tail. If you love water sports, sailing, or live close to potentially dangerous bodies of water, you need to take this into account when choosing a dog. The following seven dog breeds are known to be water loving canines.

Examples of Natural Swimmers and Water Loving Dogs.

2. Chesapeake Bay Retriever...

5 Fun Dog Facts from the AKC

1. Yawning is contagious — even for dogs. Research shows that the sound of a human yawn can trigger one from your dog. And it's four times as likely to happen when it's the yawn of a person your pet knows.
2. The Dandie Dinmont Terrier is the only breed named for a fictional person, a character in the novel "Guy Mannering" by Sir Walter Scott.
3. Dogs curl up in a ball when sleeping to protect their organs — a holdover from their days in the wild, when they were vulnerable to predator attacks.
4. The Basenji is not technically "barkless," as many people think. They can yodel.
5. The Australian Shepherd is not actually from Australia. In fact, they are an American breed.

While some dogs take to water effortlessly, others may have a more challenging time. Factors that can impact a dog's swimming ability include their body structure, size, and temperament. Some dogs may require more guidance and support when it comes to swimming.

Examples of dogs that MAY NOT be natural swimmers include:

1. Brachycephalic Breeds:

The physical characteristics of brachycephalic breeds, such as their short noses and compact airways, can make it more challenging for them to swim. Their facial structure can affect their ability to breathe properly and can make it more difficult for them to keep their heads above water. Additionally, their body structure may not be as buoyant as that of some other breeds.

List of Brachycephalic Breeds Which May Have Difficulty Swimming:

1. Bulldog (English Bulldog)
2. French Bulldog
3. Pug
4. Boston Terrier
5. Boxer
6. Shih Tzu
7. Cavalier King Charles Spaniel
8. Pekingese
9. Lhasa Apso
10. Brussels Griffon

11. Affenpinscher
12. Japanese Chin
13. Bullmastiff
14. English Mastiff
15. Staffordshire Bull Terrier

However, you may have a Brachycephalic Dog who loves water. In this case, just be extra vigilant to keep your dog safe.

2. Anxious Dogs

Some dogs are naturally fearful or have had negative experiences around water. These dogs may need special training using a buoyancy aid to give them confidence. With time and patience anxious dogs can overcome their fears.

3. Small Breeds

Extra precautions are needed with toy breeds like Chihuahua's and Yorkshire Terriers. These tiny dogs are able to swim but do not possess the stamina needed to swim against currents, tides or waves.

4. Short Legged Dogs

Some dog breeds like Corgi's or Dachshunds have short legs in relation to body size and may struggle to keep afloat

Do You Know How to Calculate Dog Years to Human Years?

As a general guideline ... the American Veterinary Medical Association breaks it down like this:

- 15 human years equals the first year of a medium-sized dog's life.
- Year two for a dog equals about nine years for a human.

And after that, each human year would be approximately five years for a dog.

About the Breed from

the AKC

Graceful terriers in sheep's clothing, Bedlington Terriers, named for the English mining shire where they were first bred, are genial housemates, alert watchdogs, versatile athletes, and irresistibly cuddly TV-time companions.

Bedlingtons are lithe, energetic Englishmen. The crisp, curly coat; arched back; tasseled ears; scimitar-shaped tail; and fleecy, pear-shaped head are identifying features of this one-of-a-kind breed. As the curvy contours indicate, there's sighthound Whippet, most likely in their family tree. Bedlingtons move with a light, springy step and when roused to pursuit can run like the wind. Rollicking, charming, and full of fun, Bedlingtons want most to be their family's center of attention and are known to be protective of loved ones. For an active family looking for a no-shedding, lively, and loyal companion, the search might end here. Bedlingtons, like most Terriers, have a fair amount of energy and require regular exercise to stay fit and happy. The breed is energetic, but not rambunctious or mischievous. A Bedlington loves to play fetch or go on a long walk or run, but afterwards he's happy to just curl up on the couch with his family. Despite their lamb-like looks, Bedlingtons were bred to chase small animals, and that's what they do. So they require a fenced-in yard and should be on a leash for all walks. Many Bedlingtons enjoy participating in agility, obedience, tracking, and earthdog competitions.

AMERICAN KENNEL CLUB
GOVERNMENT RELATIONS DEPARTMENT

Recent AKC GR blogs and alerts highlight the steps AKC is taking –and what you can do—to impact two major issues that could have significant impact on you and a large number of dog enthusiasts nationwide.

The 2024 Farm Bill continues to advance through Congress. This must-pass bill is commonly a vehicle for legislation that impacts dog owners. Anti-breeder groups have proposed the House and the Senate version of the bill that could undermine responsible dog breeders and enthusiasts. AKC appreciates the leadership by House Agriculture Chairman GT Thompson in keeping problematic language out of the House bill in a recent bill markup. AKC urges Senate Agriculture Chairman Debbie Stabenow and other members of the Senate Agriculture Committee to do likewise. To learn more and how you can make an impact, visit this alert.

The U.S. Center for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) recent rule restricting the entry/import of dogs into the United States is designed to address the serious issues of zoonotic diseases and unhealthy dogs being imported into the U.S. The AKC supports the intent of the rule, but is disappointed by an overly broad approach that does not take into account the relative risk of different types of dogs entering the U.S. Effective August 1, the rule required that all dogs entering the U.S. must be at least 6 months of age. They must also have an ISO-approved microchip, certain new government paperwork, and appear healthy. There are additional requirements for dogs entering from countries with a great rabies risk. AKC has provided numerous comments, updates and overviews of this proposal, including what you can do to express concerns about the blanket 6-month age threshold. Our most recent updates and alerts are included below. For more information, visit GR's key issues page on Pet Imports: Protecting Pet and Public Health.

The AKC Government Relations Department has released updated economic and community impact figures for all 50 states, detailed in the "AKC Impact by State" page in the Legislative Action Center. This resource provides valuable information for lawmakers, local media, chambers of commerce, and community entities about the benefits of AKC clubs, affiliates, and events.

Key highlights of the one-page summaries include:

- The economic impact of AKC dog shows
 - The number of AKC dog clubs and shows in each state
 - Contributions of the AKC Reunite disaster relief trailer and K-9 Officer donations by state
- Funding and research grants from the AKC Canine Health Foundation (AKC CHF) by state

Summertime Ear Care

The wonderful summer activities that our dogs enjoy with us require a little extra care to keep our dogs safe and healthy. This is especially true for dog ears. Whether upright ears or floppy ears, summertime adventures need to be monitored.

The dog's ear canal is shaped like a slanted "L" with a long vertical portion and a shorter horizontal section that ends at the eardrum.

Because of this configuration the dog's ear canal does not completely drain of water. Most dogs do a pretty good job of getting some of the water out of it by the dramatic head shaking that occurs when they leave the pool or lake. Just a little water left in the ear canal can lead to an ear infection. The heat and moisture are perfect for bacteria and yeast to grow.

After swim time, it is a good idea to help the ear canal dry out. There are several over the counter products that can be put in the ear and help evaporate the water. Look for products that mention ear astringent or cleaner. Some products specifically mention for swimmers ear. It does not matter if the water is from your backyard pool, the kids spraying the hose in the dog's face, or a mountain reservoir. Clean water can set up an infection as easily as a stagnant pond.

Signs that there might be a problem include the dog scratching his ear, rubbing up against the furniture, redness when you look at the inside of the ear and the ear will smell. This is when the dog will need to be examined by your veterinarian and the appropriate medication prescribed.

Summertime water fun also has two other hazards that I would like to mention here very briefly because this article is more devoted to ears. I would like to remind everyone of the danger of letting a dog swim or drink from a pond, reservoir, stream etc. that has green algae. Almost all of Utah's recreational water has harmful algal blooms (HAB) that can sicken your dog if it drinks or swims in these waters. If you decide to vacation in Utah you can monitor the HAB at: <https://deq.utah.gov/water-quality/recreational-water-quality-home>. Lake Mead is safe in almost all areas, but you should still restrict your dog from going into obvious green algae mats. The second water hazard is when a dog drinks too much water. They just go crazy in the water and snap at it and drink it nonstop. Most dogs would not drink this much water, but water intoxication does occur in dogs and children. It is called dry drowning in children.

We all enjoy the sights and smells of summer. All the flowers and trees are in bloom. Plants that we would normally call weeds we start calling wildflowers and enjoy their beauty. For many people this brings on allergies and hay fever. People get red itchy eyes, sneezing and runny nose and sometimes sore throat. Atopy is the term used for inhaled allergies in dogs. Instead of sneezing and itchy eyes, dogs show signs of atopy with itchy inflamed ears and paw licking. Inhaled allergies change the biology of the ear and leads to red inflamed and often painful ears that are easily infected. The infection can be treated by your veterinarian but will reoccur over and over until the allergies are controlled. Often these ear infections will decrease during the winter months when there is less pollen in the air.

The summer grasses and weeds can also create a problem with their seeds. Of particular importance is the grass seed known as the “fox-tail”.

These nasty little arrow shaped seeds can burrow into the ear canal and most often lodge right up against the ear drum. They will cause an infection and can be quite painful. Your veterinarian will have to sedate or even completely anesthetize your dog to remove foxtails from the ear canal. Fox tails will also migrate up nostrils, get into eyes, and in the mouth. Brushing your dog after a hike or anyplace where the dog could have been exposed to dry grass would be a good idea. Another way to help prevent foxtails from entering your dog’s body is to have your dog wear a field guard mask which is a kind of net that the dog wears over their head.

Have you ever gone camping, fishing, or found a picnic spot, and it is perfect and you are wondering how did I get so lucky to find this beautiful secluded spot? Then after you’ve unpacked your things and start to settle down, you find out why your spot was deserted. Biting summer flies. They won’t leave you alone and they won’t leave your dog alone. Dogs can get a condition called “Fly-Strike” where the very tips of their ears become bloody and scabbed from the flies attacking them. There are dog specific sprays and gels that you can apply to the ears.

So should you stay indoors and hide from water and nature? No need to do that. Just be a little proactive with the care of your dog. You might have to buy some ear drying solutions, some insect repellent and maybe even a field guard. Monitor where your dog is swimming and if they are drinking an unusually large amount of water while they are playing in the water you should stop the activity, and check for foxtails and even ticks after hikes.

Tips for Choosing a Dog Life Jacket

By AKC Staff

Updated: Mar 14, 2024

Before we share our picks, let's quickly break down what you should be looking for when choosing a dog life jacket. Although there are no standards for dog life jackets, there are some features you should look for:

Handle: A handle on the dog life jacket will make it easier for you to grab hold of your dog if necessary. It also makes it easier to teach your dog to swim. You can guide your dog in the water until they feel confident swimming on their own.

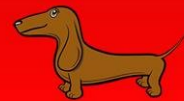

D-ring: The dog life jacket or vest should have a D-ring so you can attach a leash.

Dog life jacket vs. dog life vest: Decide whether you need a dog life jacket or a dog life vest. Dog life jackets cover more of your dog and provide both buoyancy and visibility. They're recommended for boating and other water activities. If your dog swims primarily in a pool, on the other hand, you might be OK with a life vest. A life vest is typically lighter, covers less of your dog, and is easier for casual swimming.

Color: Although dog life jackets come in all sorts of colors and prints, bright colors, or dog life jackets with a reflective strip, will make it easier to spot your dog in the water.

Here Comes the Judge...

Question for the judge: What do you do when, during the course of your rally run, you:

- 1) come across a sign that has tipped over and you can't see it
- 2) come up to a jump that is set incorrectly (more of an issue when the jump is set higher than your dog is required to jump)

Answer From Susie Osburn:

1. Either bend over and pick up the sign or look at the judge who should know what it says for the answer.
2. Always check to make sure the jump is set correctly before you enter the ring. If the jump is set too low, jump it anyway and go on. If it is set too high, stop and tell the judge it needs to be lowered. Do not jump your dog over a jump that is set too high. You could injure him.

Do you have a question you'd like to ask an AKC judge? Each month, one of our members who is an AKC judge will answer your questions. Please send your questions to Pam Chadwick, goldenz1@centurylink.net. Take this opportunity to communicate with an expert. We are waiting for your questions!

KAREN BARTHEN

I had an obedience book by Blanche Saunders that I used to train the family Beagle that I showed at SSKC matches in the late 50's. I got my first dog a Dalmatian that I named Beany in March of 1963. At that time I was competing in horse shows so training and competing with a dog was a natural step. I showed at the SSKC matches so learned about VVDOC took a class and joined the club in April 1964. My first trial was in 1964 at Silver State Kennel Club. I earned my first leg there with Beany. The next shows I went to were the Ventura / Santa Barbara weekend in July 1964 where Beany finished her CD which was my first title. My most recent title was with Della a Dalmatian who earned her Novice Fetch. Charlie a Dalmatian was the top Novice dog in VVDOC in 1975.

Because of showing in Obedience, dog shows and trials became my life and still is today. On the Dalmatians I have 1 UD, 2 CDX's and 6 CD's, 1 CD on my Whippet and 2 CDX's and 5 CD's on the Italian Greyhounds. In conformation I am most proud of my homebred IG Ch Coachwynns Beau Monde who I showed to the #1 IG in the country in 1988. He was sired by Susan Chandlers IG Ch Giovanni's Capezio CDX. I also have competed in Agility, Barnhunt, Fast Cat, Rally with Della. I am really looking forward to competing with my new IG Bebe in Rally, Obedience, scent work and agility.

From Nancy Swords: Mystique earned her first 2 qualifying runs in Scent Work Novice. Kikka earned additional runs in her Scent Work Advanced adventures and earned her Advanced Container title.

From Kathy Mondragon: 2,222 miles later Team Ash (and Baby Finn) are home from the Puyallup Cluster. A fairly successful weekend. 1 UDX leg, 3 qualifying scores in Open. 2 second placements, 1 third that we won by run-off. FYI the shopping at the show was outstanding!

Liver—It's Time to Love It
 Liver is an organ meat, and while all carnivores have been feasting on and benefiting from organ meats for as long as they've (we've) been roaming the planet. In the U.S. today, liver is much maligned as smelly and slimy. Add to that a reputation for being high in cholesterol and it's no wonder it's not a popular choice for the family dinner table. But liver has long been an acceptable and desired ingredient in dog food and treats—and it's no wonder. Liver is loaded with vitamin A (retinol), which is good for your eyes, skin, and mucous membranes. It also contains vitamins E, D, and K, is packed with essential minerals, is a high-quality protein source, and is rich in omega-3 and omega-6 fatty acids. All these are great for your dog—and for you! One additional note: Because the liver is the detoxifying organ in the body, purchase meat that is as limited in its exposure to toxin-processing as possible, such as an organic cut.

GRANDMA'S FAVORITE LIVER & CHEDDAR DOG TREATS

- 1 C. oat flour (or Tapioca)
- 1 1/2 C. brown rice flour
- 1/2 lb. raw chicken or beef liver
- 1 C. shredded low-fat cheddar cheese
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder (or granulated garlic)
- 1 egg

Preheat oven to 350F. Puree the liver in a food processor. Immediately clean the food processor afterwards; once the liver dries it is very hard and unpleasant to get out of there. Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly until a dough forms. Roll the dough out on a lightly floured surface to 1/4" thickness. Use a cookie cutter or a pizza cutter to cut out shapes. Place on an ungreased cookie sheet (they can be close together as they don't spread much while cooking). Or, for easier clean up, cover the cookie sheet with aluminum foil for a no-fuss clean up. Bake for 20-25 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from the oven and let cool completely on a wire rack. Store in an airtight container in the refrigerator. Recipe compliments of Anita Koss. Anita uses Tapioca, as the treats crumble less using this ingredient.

Tidbits

Many of you will remember the pleasure of showing or stewarding under AKC Judge John Cox. He left us recently, but his "tidbits" deserve repeating. Below are some of his valuable and timeless tips.

Tidbit #39

This = 3 or more points off your score....OR....

leave the ring like this and save points!

* Note in the Scoring, all penalties listed in this exercise are Substantial, which is defined as 3 or more points.

Tidbit #6 How can praising your dog cost points?

Section 22. Praise. Praise and petting are allowed between and after exercises, but points will be deducted from the total score for a dog that is not under reasonable control while being praised. There will be a substantial penalty for any dog that is picked up or carried at any time in the obedience ring while under judgment.

Note: A dog is under judgment until it leaves the ring." A tip for the handler is to know how one's dog reacts to praise beforehand and praise accordingly in the ring so the dog enjoys the praise but also maintains "reasonable control."

A handler may pick up their dog and carry it back into the ring for awards. I have not attempted this with my Saint Bernard yet, but may it try soon.

Saints do love their cuddle time!
